WHITEWATER TALKS ON SLOW TRAINS AND BAD SERVICE

MOVEMENT FOR BETTERMENT MEETS WITH HEARTY APPROVAL OF PEOPLE.

MILTON JOINS IN

Everywhere the Gazette Correspondent Has Gone the Story Is the Same.

One universal voice of protest is lifted in all this section of the state over the train service on both the Northwestern and the St. Paul roads for passengers who want to go to Milwaukee and back in a day. Wherever the staff correspondent of the Gazette has gone, on the train or in any of the villages or at the stopping places, the cry is the same and all are looking with eagerness for some action at the conference to be held on Monday for action that will better the passenger service.

Whitewater's Protest

The score and more Whitewater men who were asked their opinion regarding the service to and from Milwaukee, expressed their indignation and dissatisfaction with the primitive quick service that this locality has been forced to swallow. Mention was made of the efforts of different individuals had made to impress the "powers that be" with the necessity and profitability of a swifter and better appointed train—one that will get into Milwaukee in the morning and leave in the late afternoon so that people can go there and do a day's business and return the same day.

Commercial Club at Work

A. M. Hanson, president of the Commercial club is behind a very effort to secure better train service for this part of the state. He pointed out that although Whitewater suffers materially by the inadequacy of the present service, it is not necessary to have a half dozen trains but let there be a few that make the run faster than a man can walk and at the right time. He said that the matter up will be a wonderful work accomplished if the Gazette and the moving end chambers of the town could get the service. Whitewater is anxious to do all it can.

A Solution of the Problem

W. J. O'Connor, president, offered a feasible solution for the milk train annoyance. "Milk has to be shipped, there is no getting around that, but there is a way to get it here at Whitewater that lies idle until after the nine o'clock train every day. Why couldn't it start from here daily along the way and arrive at the milk tank as late as 10:30, so that the passenger train wouldn't have to wait 15 or 20 minutes at each stop? To me that would seem to be one way of alleviating the present situation."

But for Fair in Railroad

Robert Cole, editor, the service, I think, should be improved. The way to go at it would be for every town that is affected by the present inadequacy to have representatives appear before the railroad officials and present the case. The railroad should be willing to consider when it is to their advantage as well as to the towns.

Blackman, president, first National Education association, would like to see better service from here to Milwaukee, not only for his own personal reasons and for the good of the water, but for the benefit of all the towns in the territory.

Definite Steps Commended

John O'Connor merely said, "I don't like to swear."

Earle Knikins, contractor, "It's pretty rotten. For a town that supplies as much traffic as Whitewater. (Continued on page 9)"

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Ill., July 9.—Police are puzzled by the mysterious disappearance of a woman who withdrew $2,500 from the bank on the afternoon of the day she was murdered, and the gun Wanderer borrowed from a cousin the same day. After studying the case they admit the withdrawal of the money and borrowing of the gun may have been coincidental as Wanderer maintains.

They are also anxious to understand why with 10 shots fired at a range of less than 10 feet, Wanderer was not the slightest bit hurt. Both his wife and the other man were killed.

"There is a strong possibility that Wanderer did not die at the shooting," Chief of Police Garrity said.

All the dead woman's friends and relatives remain loyal to Wanderer and insist that the slaying was a party for which he was to be held responsible. All the dead woman's friends and relatives remain loyal to Wanderer and insist that the slaying was a party for which he was to be held responsible.

ATTORNEY GENERAL AND COX HAD REED OUSTED, CHARGE

GOLTRA NAMED

Tells of Expense Money Aid By Two Antagonistic Factions.

(By Associated Press.)

St. Louis, July 9.—Delegates to the Missouri democratic convention which helped oust Senator Reed from his national convention seat, were supplied expense money by two antagonistic factions one favorable to Attorney General Palmer and one to Gov. Cox, according to witnesses today before the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures.

Each had $100,000.

Nine members of the democratic city committee were the first witnesses before the committee when it convened today. Each of them declared he received a check for $150 signed by E. F. Goltra, democratic national committeeman, said by witnesses to have been a Palmer supporter.

Witnesses declare that Goltra when distributing the checks to a committee meeting, "made it plain that the money was for expenses" and then declared there were no strings attached to it.

10,000 Are Distributed

The attention of the committee, as the hearing opened, was centered on the reported distribution of $100,000 to the 28 members of the city democratic committee by Edward F. Goltra, St. Louis, democratic national committeeman from Missouri, to help defray the expenses of delegates to the state democratic convention in Joplin.

Telegrams summoning Goltra and J. J. Davis, local attorney, as witnesses were sent to the United States marshal at San Francisco today, with instructions to arrest them if they failed to appear.

"Goltra was against Reed but most of the delegates who helped oust him were for Reed," Henry Streiter, a city committeeman declared.

Goltra was for Palmer.

Asked why he wanted Reed ousted, Arthur Lancaster, another committeeman replied:

"Palmer. He figured Palmer was doing the best for us. That's why many of us did not side with Goltra."

"The St. Louis delegates figured that if they were scheduled to go to the Missouri convention, they should be made a delegate to San Francisco," Lancaster continued.

Inside of ten minutes at the latest on any definite action the news of the news is picked up and placed on the desk of the news editor of the Gazette for the day's paper or the bulletin service.

Berlin and Spa, Paris and Yokohama, Fargo and Buenos Aires, New Orleans and Los Angeles, all are but a flash from the readers of the Gazette.

But even with the best news service a newspaper must be more than a purveyor of important events. It must appeal to all the family circle. It must have something for the things of the day, there must be reading entertainment and of an educational nature. There must be something for the whole family little and big. In the Gazette the woman finds something interesting each day. Then there are the boys and girls and the Billy Whiskers and a lot of other features for the young folks.

Tomorrow the Gazette begins the Birthday Club articles with a number of sketches of the early settlers who are still living and historical reminiscences of Rock county. ### DELEGATES SIGN STRINGENT TERMS ON DISARMAMENT

ULTIMATUM OF FORCES CROSSING RUHR RE-SULTS IN ACCEPTANCE OF DEMANDS.

PROTEST IS MADE

Objection Filed to Occupation of Territory Except as Provided in Treaty.

(By Associated Press.)

Spa, Belgium, July 9.—Germany's delegates signed at 11:45 o'clock this morning an engagement accepting the terms of the allied note relating to disarmament presented yesterday. The action was taken under protest by the German representatives.

The allied note, which amounted virtually to an ultimatum, demanded that the Germans accept the terms presented by noon today and stipulated that, in the event of the Germans failing to accept the provisions of the demands allied forces would occupy parts of the German empire.

German Protest

The Germans protested that the treaty of Versailles did not obligate them to acquiesce in further territorial occupations except for the purpose of fulfilling the treaty terms regarding reparations.

The decision of the German cabinet to meet the demand was reached at an early morning session today, the vote being unanimous. The vote was taken after a telephonic communication from the reichstag leaders in Berlin approving the acceptance of the reichstag and party leaders for the cabinet at Spa to use its own judgment.

Cabinet Objects to Terms

A unanimous decision was also taken by the cabinet that Germany could not accept these stipulations concerning possible occupation of the Ruhr and other territories provided the disarmament was not executed according to the allied judgment. It was held the German cabinet was precluded by constitutional reasons from entering into any such arrangement without the consent of parliament. The allies were requested to strike this paragraph from their ultimatum. The cabinet was not able to continue the conference.

Protest in Writing

The protest in writing, the Germans in signing the engagement was submitted in writing. In the delegates denied authority to consent to the terms of the ultimatum except as provided for in the treaty of Versailles.

Warn the Germans

When the German delegates informed the conference that they were ready to sign, but were not empowered to agree to allied occupation if the disarmament conditions were not fulfilled, the allied representatives conferred among themselves and Premier Lloyd George as spokesman for the allies.

"We do not ask your agreement to the penalties we reserve the right we take in case the non-execution of your engagement," they simply warn of our intentions."

The disarmament protocol also contains naval and aerial conditions.

The conference took up the question of German prosecutions of the war until immediately after the disarmament protocol was signed, but deferred the matter to experts for final clarification of certain details which it was expected would be completed this afternoon.

The plenipotentiary discussion of the conference was also held by Carl Heine, German vice chancellor and minister of justice told how he had begun preparations for the ultimatum, but had encountered legal difficulties and no arrests had yet been made.

BUILDING AT HIGH MARK OF SEASON

Long Standing Controversy of Contractors and Unions Fails to Stop Work.

Janesville's building season program, dealt almost a death blow when union labor and the contractors and builders entered their controversy April 1, with the resultant open shop edict of the latter, appears to be fast catching up with original schedules with neither side apparently losing to any great extent.

There is practically a famine in the supply of skilled craftsmen and despite the importation of quite a number by the affiliated building men the number is said to be far short of actual needs.

Union Men Working Few men are to be found around Union Labor hall at the present time as all are said to have found births with contractors willing to recognize the union. This is true in plumbing, masonry and bricklaying, electric, carpentry and other building lines.

Union officials are still extending every effort to supply men to shops as fast as fair. This activity extends out of town.

Because of the nature of the building and by reason of bad conditions to care for the city's sick and emergency cases the unions have thrown down the bar and have permitted their men to find employment with the firm of Ford, Boos and Sons, building the addition to Mercy hospital.

Union men declared today that the members of the Builders' exchange, the affiliated building contractors organization which declares for open shop, are paying the wage scales demanded but that they are holding out for the 48-hour week. The unions sought the 48-hour week.

NEW MARINE BILL REVIVES OLD DUTY

Washington, July 9.—Operation of the merchant marine act will bring into force the section of the Underwood tariff act of 1913 imposing a discriminatory duty of 5 percent on goods entering the United States in foreign bottoms, in the opinion of some diplomats, who have studied the new shipping bill.

Application of this section of the Underwood act was suspended by a decision of the supreme court in 1917. The court held that the section was in conflict with the provision of the treaty of 1815 between the United States and Great Britain. This treaty, along with similar treaties with a score of other countries must be abrogated under the merchant marine law.

Some diplomats believe it was the clear intent of congress to reserve for itself the right to impose the discriminatory duties by future legislation but they declare that unless such legislation is enacted before the treaty is abrogated five percent discriminatory duty imposed under the Underwood law automatically will come into force.

PASSENGER SERVICE TO BE DISCUSSED

Conference of Representatives of Chamber of Commerce of Many Cities and Towns.

For forty years the cities and towns in this part of Wisconsin have not had adequate train service to the largest city of the state. The smaller towns and villages suffer from this lack and business is impaired because of the condition. No one is satisfied. People can get to Chicago and back most any time during the day or night. But it is a tough trip to make to Milwaukee and back. Are you interested in better train service? There is to be a conference on Monday and many men representing outside cities and towns will be there. Will you be present to help give them welcome and boost for a better passenger service?

A Better Train Service conference will be held in Janesville next Monday afternoon following the luncheon at the Grand Hotel noon. Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and business associations of Milwaukee, Beloit, Madison, Watertown, Edgerton, Stoughton, Mineral Point, Lehigh, Monroe, Whitewater, Brodhead, Jefferson, Ft. Atkinson, Delavan, Milton and Milton Junction, have written that they would be present. Where the city of Janesville has no association the business men will have a representative. All will be luncheon guests of the Janesville Chamber.

Railroad Men Will Be There—Representatives of the traffic departments of the Northwestern and St. Paul roads will be present also to hear the suggestions that are to be made. It is expected that the conference will formulate a definite request to the railroads for something like adequate train service between the points named and Milwaukee. Managers of the Chambers of Commerce of Milwaukee and Madison have shown enthusiasm in the task and Milwaukee expects to be represented by at least three men from the chamber.

Meeting to Follow Luncheon—The meeting of the railroad conference will follow the regular luncheon. At that luncheon the subjects for discussion are the support of the Good roads association. Rock county will be told the need of keeping that association alive for the good ahead of it. Frank Cannon, secretary of the association will be present and talk to the members. Wisconsin must change its laws in reference to a tax levy for roads in order to meet the requirements of the federal government or state will not be able to receive any of the additional sums appropriated for better roads by congress. All these points will be explained at the luncheon Monday.

This will be one of the most important luncheons of the year. Plans for the community will be announced. Matters will be discussed of vital interest to all and the topics have "pep" in them. The luncheon starts at 12:15 and the program begins with the soup. Under the new rules of the luncheons the speaking is on as soon as the food. That saves time and enables men to get away early.

An Airplane Landing Place—When John Nolen made the city plan he located a place for an airplane landing. Eventually every city of size will have such a field, is the general belief. At the meeting on Monday Mr. Alfred W. Larson of the Larson Airplane company will tell about the service he has established and his desire to make Janesville a landing station. The steering committee arranging the program will also have good musical features.

CLOSING OUT SALE—The Biggest Harness and Leather Goods Bargains ever offered in Janesville. Frank Sadler, East End of Court St. Bridge.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

As Contributed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am thirty years old and have never found a girl who cared for me except as a friend. I am a man of character and am very strict in my habits. I certainly would like to marry and settle down. While I am not wealthy I am in a good position to support a wife. The girl that I am going with is fond of me as a friend, but has refused to give me any encouragement that she will marry me. Should I give her up and try to forget her and try to find some worthy girl that is more favorable to marrying?

HEART BROKEN BACHELOR.
Something must be wrong with your method of courting. It is a fine thing to be a bachelor, but it is not to make the girl feel that life with such a man would be full of joy and with very little joy. It is wrong to take life too seriously and never play. Break away from your habits some of the time and do something new and adventurous.

Do not spend money for necessities only, or do you buy luxuries because they give pleasure? Naturally you do not want to buy a woman's affections, but if you spend money in certain ways it would be quite certain results in the character which she would love.

Almost every girl likes to go to a moving picture theater and see a picture. Should you take her to one of these places every week or two? She should be given candy about once a month. On her birthday, at least, there should be flowers.

It would be wrong to court a girl in such a way however, if you are not sincere in what you do. It would be trapping her to make her think you are thoughtful and then not already engaged to love someone else. I can't tell you why, but that's the truth. I suppose I should be ashamed of it, but I am not.

Court your sweetheart as if you were a young man there, but I do not know him. This young man told my friend that I had a beautiful figure. I should like to know him. How can I get acquainted with him?

A NYMPH.
The young man's comment upon your shape and you should not feel encouraged by such a remark. Don't try to get acquainted with him. I should like to know him. How can I get acquainted with him?

Don't try to get acquainted with him. I should like to know him. How can I get acquainted with him?

DO YOU KNOW

Do you know how much money should be saved and how large an income the young man should have before he assumes the obligations of married life? Here is a young man who wants to get married and has asked the Gazette how much money he will need. It is turned over to the Do You Know column. Should any man in a hurry without a sure job and a few dollars even though the girl he is going to marry has a good place where she is earning almost as much as he?

Just hear the youth out and tell him what you think about it. There will be relief to one Janesville man when he knows.

Monopoly of Yocco.
The world's supply of Mocha sheep-skin is obtained by about a dozen buyers, who have their native collectors in caravans to collect the skins at various centers, of which Mocha, Berbera, Seyidieh and Hobeidah are the main points, from which they are sent to Aden, a British coaling station, where on account of the exportation, is the shipping point for skins sent to London, the continent of Europe, and the United States.

While it may be too warm to think of anything but bathing suits or the very finest of summer frocks there are some women who wear a serge or jersey frock all year around and they will like the idea of this one. The serge frock is a very practical idea, for it may be worn with ease and comfort when traveling or for business and it is particularly good for the very cool days often experienced in the summer vacation.

This frock of navy blue serge is taken smartly unusual because it is perfect. There are many unusual frocks and many smart frocks, but these which are smartly unusual deserve honorable mention. This is such a frock. It is made on very simple lines with delicate pipings of white, a truly novel touch. Told, there is a subtle hint of the gaudy collar and little puff cuffs which extend below the very short sleeves. Full buttons on both sides of the skirt are an additional trimming note which is effective.

Outlaw Hides Above Prison Bakery While Posses Scour Country Round

Rawlins, Wyo.—For ninety-six hours, while mounted posses scoured the black country surrounding the Wyoming penitentiary at Rawlins and officers hundreds of miles distant were on the look out for him, William B. Smith, convict 2777, crouched in a hole above the prison bakery in an atmosphere hotter than a Turkish bath and drier than Sahara's, doggedly the damned while awaiting opportunity to scale the penitentiary wall, and if possible, join his prison bunkie, R. L. Lofton, who, "somewhere outside," he believes to be waiting for him.

Prison officials learned with amazement that Smith still was within the penitentiary's walls when at midnight, he was driven by thirst from his hiding place and was captured while seeking water.

During the four days and four nights since he had picked the lock of his cell and cut his way out of the cellhouse with a meat saw stolen from the prison kitchen his only sustenance had been a bunch of onions obtained as he had obtained the saw.

Now Smith is in the death house of the penitentiary—prison with in a prison—loaded with iron but undismayed. "You can't keep a bird like me in a cage," defiantly he told Warden, despairingly informed the officer informed him that the severest punitive and precautionary measures were to be taken in his case, and everybody connected with the Wyoming prison, officially or through duance, is inclined to believe him.

Smith commands a genius for escaping and his "real life" exploits transcend Houdini's vaudeville marvels. "It's no use—I can't hold this man unless you give me a gun," whose single duty it shall be to watch him," the late "Cap" Brine, then warden of the penitentiary, despairingly informed the state board of charities and reform then Smith and R. L. Lofton made an astounding escape from the death house last April. Lofton made a clean get-away and Smith, driven back from the prison's outer wall by a guard's gun, took refuge in a sewer and there lay for days before compelled by hunger to surrender. "See you later," Smith called to Lofton as the latter dropped from the top of the wall to the freedom on the outside. Other convicts in the Wyoming prison will lay odds of three to one that he keeps his word, and prison officials, even if it is not impolitic for them to do so, probably would like to take some of the affirmative end of the bet.

Smith, an automobile mechanic used thirty-five years was sentenced at Cheyenne last October to serve from six to ten years for cracking a safe. Lofton, a carpenter, aged twenty-five, was sentenced at Cheyenne in November, 1918, to serve from three to five years for grand larceny. Smith is known to have in previous prison escapes been in Montana, New Mexico, Colorado, and Lofton is believed to have "done time" elsewhere. Both men soon there should be some discrimination. We're on a business trip, but that doesn't mean we're sitting in the backwoods with no dissatisfaction for our neglect. It's a good thing some definite steps are being taken.

WHITEWATER TALKS OF SLOW TRAINS

George Paust, clothier, was putting it very mildly when he said, "It could be a whole lot better."

Shorten the Trip
George Marsh, president, Citizens State Bank, is heartily in favor of the action being taken to correct the defects in the present schedule. "It ought not to take more than an hour and a half to make a trip," he said. "One cannot be sure of how long it is going to take him to make the trip."

George Bonnell, clothier, "A better service will boost the town and help and benefit the company."

He Was Satisfied?
The reporter has a sneer when he approached Editor Sullivan. "I think the trains ought to run into Whitewater but not out, that then the people couldn't run to the larger cities to spend their hard earned ducats. It was hard to tell whether he was in a sarcastic mood or not, but if he had his way there would be no train at all."

It's rotten. There should be one fast train to Milwaukee in the morning and one back the evening."

J. Spangler, hardware dealer, "I'm for all improvement. It sure needs it."

Franklin the Gazette
F. T. Cass, lawyer, "Good for the Gazette. The service has been poor for years so it is high time something were done. The schedule should be such that a person can go to Milwaukee and do whatever business he has to attend to and return in the evening without spending the whole day on the road."

J. H. Humphrey, president of the Century Pen Co., "There should be at least one train that will get you there in an hour and a half instead of three. I am heartily in favor of any movement of the Gazette in conjunction with the various chambers to improve the present schedule."

J. K. Krawli, druggist, "It's a source of constant complaint."

F. H. Vette, dry goods, "Bad! Altogether too slow and un dependable. You can walk it as fast as the train."

How Milton Feels
Milton is not passive in its sentiments regarding the present service. The different representative citizens questions voiced their personal grievances and the complaints of the entire town.

E. M. Wells, cashier, Bank of Milton, "It is very slow and inadequate. Milton will appreciate any effort to better it, and will help in whatever way it can."

W. W. Clark, books and stationery, "Well, I don't use it any more than is absolutely necessary. I every Sunday to go to the ball game, but I've got sick of the ride."

All Day on a Train
H. C. Stevens, druggist, "There should be some way to get to Milwaukee and back in a day without spending the whole day on the train."

Reuben Lamphere, "Terrible."

C. W. Dunn, general store, "I would like to have it such that I could get in and see a show once in a while without missing two days of my work."

S. W. Croswley, grocer, "I haven't had so much personal experience with the passenger service, but the freight is very poor. I have heard a lot of complaints about it."

D. A. Davis, "There are enough trains if they would have any one of them make faster time. Something ought to be done."

With "Chic" Harley, Ohio state football star in the lineup with several other athletic cracks, Janesville fans will have an opportunity to see a couple of fast ball games when the Logan Squares of Chicago play here against the Samson Tractors.

The two clubs clashed in the early part of June in Chicago, and at that time Samson came away with an even break, taking the first game, 6 to 5, and losing the second, 4 to 1. Since that time, the Samsonites have played nine games and lost only two and have met some of Besides "Chic" Harley, his brother, Walt, will be in the lineup for Logan Squares and he's some player. Gaby Squaron, considered the cream of Chicago League pitchers, will probably pitch on Sunday. Mike Hechinger, catcher, was formerly with the Chicago Cubs, and first baseman, built from the Minneapolis American Association club. The match which was interrupted yesterday by a rainstorm was resumed under much better conditions today.

BRINGING UP FATHER

DEFENDING YACHT, CHALLENGER AND CUP IN COMING RACE

The 100-guinea cup at stake, the "Resolute" in center, and the "Shamrock IV."

Here are the two yachts—the last word in racing construction—that will meet off Sandy Hook in a series of races beginning July 15 for the most prized trophy in the yachting world, the 100-guinea cup held by America since 1851. The "Resolute" has been chosen to defend the cup, being considered easily the pick of three yachts originally built for the event. "Shamrock IV" is the fourth boat Sir Thomas Lipton, blue-blooded English sportsman, has had built in an effort to take the cup back across the Atlantic. When Lipton writes his last check for expenses in connection with the coming races he will have spent at least $2,500,000 to get the cup. And American experts are pretty sure that the money will have been spent in vain.

Death of a caddie at Utica last Sunday when he was hit by a ball from a 200-yard drive have caused comment that golfers should use more caution and not take any shots until they see the field in front of them is clear.

The races in both major ball leagues are hotter than ever. The leaders are in danger of being overtaken. It is just about now that things are commencing to loom up for the "turn in the road."

It is brought out by a New York writer that industrial league baseball has made such an inroad into the minors that 200 players have deserted for factory league ball. He says that the abolishment of the draft rule by the minors a year ago was folly that is now showing up.

50 RURAL SCHOOLS ENGAGE TEACHERS

Others Expected To Be Hired Shortly—Training School Is Brought to Boards.

Out of 170 rural schools in Rock county, about one-third of them, according to reports received by C. D. Antislade, superintendent of schools, have hired their teachers for the coming year. Although there is a great shortage of teachers in Wisconsin, it is impossible at this time, Antislade said, to estimate the effect of the shortage upon Rock county's rural schools. By the middle of July nearly all school boards will have hired teachers but in some cases no decisions will be reached until the latter part of the summer.

Salaries from $75 to $125. Salaries for teachers in rural districts vary with the size of the school and the amount of experience possessed by the teacher. At the last session of the state legislature a minimum salary of $75 per month was established. The lowest salary of which Mr. Antislade has heard this year is $75.50. The average salary of a teacher could be $100. An average salary for a teacher without experience will be between $85 and $90 per month. The average for an experienced teacher, if she is exceptionally well qualified and is to teach a large school may receive $100. Two cases have been reported in salaries of $100 are to be paid on these grounds. Some schools hiring their teachers for last year for the coming year, having proved their worth, and knowing their ability to teach, have agreed to pay salaries ranging from $100 to $125, the highest as yet reported being $125. The average for experienced teachers, however, will run between $100 and $115.

Wisconsin is the pioneer state in establishing county training schools for rural school teachers. There are now between 30 and 40 counties that have such schools. Rock county's training school for teachers is in the Jefferson school, this city, under the principalship of P. J. Lowry. The ninth annual session, starting this summer, the school has for its special purpose the training of teachers for rural schools. A high school education is now required for a rural teacher plus at least one year of training, including work in practice teaching. In Rock county candidates for county certificates are required to complete the year of training at the training school, consisting of regular classes in civics, arithmetic, algebra, American literature, English literature, grammar and composition, geography, American and modern history, and practical teaching under supervision. By this means the applicant learns the best and latest methods of teaching, along with her required class work.

Model School Is Conducted. What is known as the model school is composed of several grades made up of children from the city and rural districts under the model school teacher. When it is time for the applicants for certificates to take up the practice teaching, they are sent down to the model school, where, after a certain amount of observation study, they are allowed to teach for a period of ten weeks, under the supervision of Miss Edna Jacobson. At the end of the period are spent in rural schools, where the would-be teachers observe for half the time and teach the other half. At the end of the county training school's session, examinations are given, and certificates made out.

"Such schools, however," said Mr. Antislade, "are not normal schools, and to speak of a county training school as a county normal school is a misnomer."

Teach in Other Counties. The certificates received from the county training school are good for the county only, although such certificates may be countersigned by the superintendent of schools in another county. Similar training to that given in the county training school is sometimes given in state normal schools, and in connection with a few high schools, but better results are said to be obtained in the regular county training schools where such have been established.

When there is such a shortage of legally qualified teachers for the rural school districts, certificates from teachers who have received their training in other counties may be countersigned by the superintendent of the county, provided there are a few special cases where no teacher is available for a certain district. The state superintendent of schools may authorize the giving of special examinations by the county superintendent.

MONROE

[By Gazette Correspondent.] Monroe, July 9.—The celebration of the 100th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence was celebrated in Monroe on Monday, a large crowd gathered in the square to attend the celebration put on by the Monroe citizens.

Clad in rain coats and undisturbed by the dampness, the Monroe Hussar band started the day off with a concert on the square in the morning. The musicians led a march to the fair grounds, where the Monroe Pirates initiated their natty gray uniforms by wading through a large pile of mud.

The feature of the day's program was a water fight held in the side of the square by teams from New Glarus and Burlington. New Glarus, represented by Emil Brum and Fred W. Kunder, won a hard 40 minute battle during which the men were subjected to a severe punishment by a stream of water which played almost constantly upon them. Finally won after a determined offensive rush against their opponents, Moore and Martin.

An injury to Willard Martin, Burlington, furnished the unfortunate climax to the fight. When the New Glarus team had worked up to a position where they were at the nozzle of their opponents, Martin turned his head and received the full force of the steam in his left eye. A bad cut resulted and it was feared that his eye might be seriously injured. He was rushed to the Clark drug store for emergency treatment. When the battle ended, Emil Brum, overcome by the severe strain of the test, lost consciousness. The stream of water used in the fight represented a pressure of 110 pounds to a square inch.

Free acts on the square during the afternoon and evening were given by the Osible Japs, tumblers, and Killy Thomas, tricycle rider. Following the ceremony a two course luncheon was served at the Klasy residence on the Argyle road.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansen left for Milwaukee. They will spend part of their honeymoon at lakes in northern Wisconsin and Michigan, and will be at home Sept. 1 at 2515 North Sawyer avenue, Chicago.

Firestone tubes the best in materials into tubes by establishing purchasing experts at center of the world's rubber market puts the best in workmanship into tubes, utilizing the crack manufacturing organization of the industry on a profit-sharing basis.

And then subjects the finished product to a big-scale road test—in order to get your tube money and more miles from your tires. And yet Firestone Tubes cost less than the ordinary kind.

Rebekah Lodge Formed Half Century Ago Membership Is Now 300

Women of Janesville were first admitted into the organization of the I. O. O. F. when in 1872 the Rebekah degree of Odd Fellows of Wisconsin lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., was instituted by the Grand lodge of Wisconsin in the old Court street Methodist church, now occupied by the Masonic Temple. Schuyler Colfax of

Past State Pres. Wisconsin D. F.

Indiana was the author of the idea of Rebekah degree, of Odd Fellowship, the degree being formally inaugurated by the Sovereign lodge, national lodge of I. O. O. F. Women whose husbands, brothers and sons were members of the I. O. O. F. were now eligible for membership in the auxiliary society, and in Janesville, American Rebekah No. 76, became the auxiliary to Wisconsin lodge No. 14.

Mrs. Glass first head. Previous to this, in other Rebekah lodges in Wisconsin, it was customary to have a man hold the office of Noble Grand. Jerome Howland was the first Noble Grand of the Janesville American Rebekahs, No. 76; but men of Janesville I. O. O. F. were democratic enough to think that a woman should hold the highest office in her society. Mrs. Georgia Glass therefore became the first woman Noble Grand of the Rebekah degree of Odd Fellowship. Mrs. Glass at the present time is 83, and the oldest living charter member of Rebekah lodge, No. 76.

Expansion of Janesville and growth of the population necessitated the separation, in 1894, of members of the I. O. O. F. into two lodges. Wisconsin lodge No. 14 remained at the East side lodge, while the new West side lodge was known as Janesville City lodge, No. 90. Naturally the women whose husbands, brothers, or sons belonged to the West side lodge wished to be connected with its activities. This led to the institution, March 21, 1898, of the West side Rebekah lodge, organized as Janesville Rebekahs, No. 171, of the Janesville City lodge, No. 90. At the present time American Rebekahs, No. 76, have about 175 members, and Janesville Rebekahs No.

171, have a membership list of around 165.

Purpose to Help Aged. Rebekah lodges all have as their common purpose the helping towards the support of aged women members of Rebekah lodges, husbands and wives who are members of the I. O. O. F. lodges, and women who are not Rebekahs but whose husbands belonged to the I. O. O. F. A home support themselves is maintained by all Wisconsin I. O. O. F. lodges at Green Bay, each local lodge throughout the state paying its share toward the support. Orphan children of parents who belonged to the I. O. O. F. lodges are also cared for and supported at this home in Green Bay.

Two Local Women Honored. Janesville Rebekahs have been honored by having two members of the local lodges chosen as state presidents. Mrs. Nellie Blakely, now deceased, was once state president of Wisconsin Rebekah lodges and Mrs. Cora Dickinson of America. Mrs. Blakely, the name of Mrs. Nellie Blakely, owing to her loyal service in local and state work, was chosen for the name of the Rebekah lodge No. 171, Milford, Wis.

One new feature of the Rebekah degree of Odd Fellowship is that any unmarried woman over 18 can now become a member of a Rebekah lodge, though she may have no male relatives who are members of the I. O. O. F.

FIRELESS COOKERS SELL FAST IN AFRICA

Chicago—Mail order sales of fireless cookers in Africa are picking up since the war, one Chicago mail order houses report. Calls for cookers have also been coming in more heavily from China. Purchasers for the most part are missionaries, who find the kitchen facilities in the interior not what they are at home. A missionary bureau now in its twentieth year, and it says it sells through the mails many of the church bells that call the heathen in distant lands to worship in the American missionary churches.

The largest mail order business done from Chicago is with the Orient. The export business reported by one house runs into the millions and shows an increase this year of 100 per cent over a year ago.

China is the largest purchaser by mail from Chicago. The export manager of one of the Chicago mail order firms says that it is selling some ready-to-wear clothing, both men's and women's, by mail to the Chinese. American shoes are one of the most popular mail purchases of the natives. They are also buying some alarm clocks from catalogues.

Next to China the next largest purchaser by mail is reported from Mexico. One establishment maintains a Spanish department, and handles much of its correspondence with Latin America entirely in Spanish.

Eighteenth Amendment Puts 19 Saloons Out of Business in City

ANOTHER of the effects of a prohibition—the change in Milwaukee street. On this street alone 12 of the 19 places that were formerly occupied by saloons are now occupied by other kinds of stores. Four of these are places to eat, while one is a place of amusement. The others are stores of various kinds. A person walking up Milwaukee street a little more than a year ago, and now, would see changes like these:

On East Milwaukee street, the first store off the bridge, where H. S. Thometz's saloon was, is now States restaurant, and another eating place, the Myers cafe, is where the Myers bar was. A new billiard hall, the Coliseum, now occupies the space and serves pop and ice stuff once served there by Gustav Hill.

The old familiar William E. Janssen saloon is soon to be opened as a stationery and office supplies store.

Going back West Milwaukee street, even more changes can be seen. The temporary quarters of the Bank of Southern Wisconsin are now where John Hemming's saloon was, and the D. and L. Sweet Shop is now running where one of the partners, Maurice Dalton, formerly ran a saloon.

In the next block, Harry Ross has a printing shop in Helser & Shibley's old place. The only new building in place of a saloon is now in construction, being built by Patrick Connors in the place where he and his brother formerly ran a wholesale and retail sample room.

Finckel's Take McKeligue Place. Bloedel & Rice, an old firm, which was formerly next door, moved into the old saloon of Larson & Collins. A new billiard hall, the Black Cat, occupies Bloedel & Rice's old place.

Tim McKeligue has moved his saloon from West Milwaukee street to South river, where Thomas F. Siegel was, and the Finckel Lumber company now uses his place for its office. The old saloon of John Casey, 405 West Milwaukee street, is now vacant. A new eating place, the Coffee Shop, will go into the old Grand hotel bar.

On the other streets of the city the old saloons have not been reoccupied in such numbers. On South Main street, the Wisconsin Electric Sales company is in the old George Rundersdorf place, while on North Main street there are many more changes.

On North Main street, another billiard hall, run by Grebe & Newman, is in John Helmer's saloon, and a meat market is where Harry Van-Gilder was. George Neckraush formerly ran a saloon where the Victory lunch room is now. Only one change has been made on South River street, and that is in the old place of John Ikegah, where the Victoria Brothers & Butler hardware store is. Still another billiard hall, run by Adam J. Wood, used to be the Joseph Gokey saloon. The Leath furniture store uses the place where the Herbert Wooster saloon was, for a store room.

Twenty Still Running. Thus of the 42 saloons once in this city, 18 have been replaced by some other kind of store within one year. Saloons not yet replaced are those of Thomas McKeligue, the Hotel London John Plannery, Anton J. Hanuska, Theodore Hellerud, William J. Thier, J. B. Williams, Thomas Abbott, Sam Dorn, William G. McGinley, Herman Buggs, John Karberg, Oliver Collins, James Kelly, Arthur & Collins, Frank J. Kane, Paul Bahr, Carl Heise, Charles Buggs, Planters' bar.

La Crosse.—The Chamber of Commerce is making plans for two trade promoting automobile tours through surrounding territory. The first will be on July 26 to Vinona, Sparta, and Hanson. On August 4, the cars will go to West Salem, Mindero, Galesville and Holman.
